THE SEXTON'S
MONITOR,
AND DORCHESTER
CEMETERY MEMORIAL.

“THERON among his travels found
A broken statue on the ground,
And searching onwards as he went,
He traced a ruin'd Monument ;
Mould, moss, and shades had overgrown
The sculpture of the crumbling stone ;
Yet, e'er he pass'd, with much ado,
He guessed and spelt out SCIPIO.”

DEDICATION.

To Rev. THADDEUS MASON HARRIS, D. D. Pastor of the First Church in Dorchester.

PERMIT me, dear Sir, to inscribe this little Collection to you, in token of my affectionate regard, and of my gratitude for the benefit I have derived from your preaching.

I have been your Sexton ever since April 1st, 1799, and have attended 310 funerals; 745 of which have been in the First Parish, and the rest in the other Parishes, and in South Boston.

That it may be many years before you, or your family may need my services in this solemn vocation, is the sincere wish of your friend,

DANIEL DAVENPORT.

Dorchester, January 1, 1826.

PREFACE.

My profession as Sexton, has made me familiar with the Burying-Ground; and I observed several very ancient inscriptions on Monuments and Grave-Stones, which were becoming illegible from the mouldering effects of time. Being desirous that they should be preserved, I have copied them, together with some which I thought curious and interesting; and, that others might have the perusal of them, I have for a long time purposed to have them printed. I have arranged them nearly in the order of their dates; and have added some from Grave Yards which I have visited in other places.

I have called the little Book "THE SEXTON'S MONITOR," because, while his work in digging graves reminds him of death, the reading of Monumental Inscriptions repeats to him the solemn lessons of warning; and because I have ventured myself to give some serious and well intended advice.

I hope that all my readers will excuse any imperfections that they may discover; and remember him in their prayers, who, having buried others, must be buried himself,—for, in the words of Job, "If I wait, the grave is in mine house."

MONITORY REMARKS.

ADDRESSED TO SEXTONS IN GENERAL.

MY FRIENDS ;—We are called to bury the dead. A serious calling indeed ! It ought to make us very thoughtful and considerate. When we dig the grave, or prepare the tomb, and toll the mournful bell, or lead the solemn procession to the house appointed for all the living, and at last cover up the dark abode of mortality with earth, and spread the sods of the valley over it,—we should think that “ Death is the end of all men, and the living should lay it to heart.” And we, of all others, must be very insensible if so often called to these funeral services, we are not seriously impressed by them.

Our assistance, also, is needed, and on many occasions wished for in preference to that of others ; particularly for laying out the corpse, and placing it in the coffin, and in making the arrangements for the funeral, and the interment. Therefore, we ought to be sober, and aim so to conduct, as by our helpfulness and tenderness, to relieve the feelings of those who employ us, and secure their good opinion.

We ought to pay great attention to the common ceremonies of funerals, for the minds of the mourners are very tender at such times, and they look for indulgence and sympathetic respect ; and we must be careful not to wound or hurt the feelings of any intentionally. Likewise, we must aim to be punctual and prompt in our attendance; and not presume to dictate and give orders, unless we perceive it to be necessary, and expected of us, but to follow the directions which are given.

We should attend the prayer with devout seriousness, that we may have our hearts properly affected by the solemn occasion, and that we may be more and better prepared for the committing of dust to dust, which we are expected to do with great solemnity.

I need not to say any more, but to wish you all temporal and spiritual good; and as we ere long must have some one to commit our lifeless remains to the silent grave, we may be prepared to be laid down there in peace, with a well founded hope of a blessed resurrection and eternal life. ADIEU!

“Farewell, my friends, I must be gone,
I have no home nor stay with you;
I’ll take my staff and travel on,
’Till I a better world can view.

I’ll march to Canaan’s happy land,
I’ll rest on Canaan’s peaceful shore,
Where real pleasures never end,
And mortal troubles come no more.”

“ O lovely appearance of death,
 No sight upon earth is so fair ;
 Not all the gay pageants that breathe,
 Can with a dead body compare.”

“ When the vale of death appears,
 Faint and cold this mortal clay ;
 Kind forerunner soothe my fears,
 Light me through the darksome way,
 And break the shades, and usher in eternal day !”

“ Think, oh ye, who fondly languish
 O'er the graves of those you love ;
 While your bosoms throb with anguish,
 They are warbling hymns above.”

THE GARDEN OF GRAVES.

Come with me to the Garden,
 That sacred spot of earth,
 Where ne'er is heard the airy song,
 Nor the wanton sound of mirth.

There sleep the Widow and Fatherless,
 Deep beneath the sod,
 And there the bud of innocence
 Beside “ the man of God.”

And there is the grave of beauty,
 The form that was once divine ;
 There grows the weeping willow,
 And the yew-tree shades the shrine.

There is the bed of the Lover,
The cold sod wraps his head ;
His bower of bliss is changed,
And all its gay hopes fled.

And there too sleeps the Tyrant,
Despoiled of earthly power ;
His robes of state and grandeur,
The worms of earth devour.

But around that lonely garden,
The Spring of Time yet blooms ;
And fair, though fading blossoms
Exhale their rich perfumes.

Then come with me to the garden,
Where the race of mortals lie
Like seed that's buried in the earth,
To grow above the sky.

MEMORIALS.

DORCHESTER, in Massachusetts, called by the Indians Mattapan, was settled by emigrants from England, the beginning of June, 1630. They had two Ministers, the Rev. JOHN WARHAM, and the Rev. JOHN MAVERICK. Most of the first settlers removed, and began a settlement on Connecticut river, in the latter part of 1635, and called the place Windsor, and there Mr. WARHAM died, April 1, 1670. Mr. MAVERICK died in Boston, Feb. 3d, 1636, aged 60.

A new Church was gathered at Dorchester, August 23d, 1636, and Rev. RICHARD MATHER was chosen teacher. He died April, 22d 1669, aged 73.

In the latter part of the year 1639, the Rev. JONATHAN BURR was settled colleague with Mr. Mather, and died August 9, 1641, aged 37.

Rev. JOHN WILSON was ordained as assistant to Mr. Mather, in 1649 ; and, after two years, was removed to Medfield, where he was Pastor forty years, and died August 23d, 1691.

Rev. JOSIAH FLINT was ordained Dec. 27, 1671 ; and died Sept. 16, 1680, aged 35.

Rev. JOHN DANFORTH was ordained June 28, 1682; and died May 26, 1730, aged 78.

Rev. JONATHAN BOWMAN was ordained November 5, 1729; continued the pastoral office till December 14, 1773, and died March 30, 1775, aged 68.

Rev. MOSES EVERETT was ordained September 28, 1774; continued Pastor until January 14, 1793; and deceased March 25, 1813, aged 63.

Rev. THADDEUS MASON HARRIS, was ordained October 23d, 1793.

A Second Church was gathered in the town, January 1st, 1808; and the Rev. John Codman was ordained Pastor, December, 7, 1808.

A Third Church was gathered in Dorchester June 25th, 1817, and the Rev. EDWARD RICHMOND installed Pastor.

NOTES AND REFERENCES TO THE PRECEDING PAGE.

(a) In Mr. Blake's Manuscript Annals, is this record, "In my Fathers' book there is a memorandum in the account he kept, that from the first of April, 1690, unto the first of July, 1691, that is one year and four months, there died in Dorchester fifty seven persons, thirty three of them of the Small Pox, the rest of a fever, and most of them of a middle age. About the same time, (1690,) lost at sea forty six soldiers that went to Canada. In all, one hundred and three."

(b) This year died Mrs. Anne Pierce, widow of Mr. Robert Pierce, being 104 years old.

(c) Feb. 6, 1705, died the widow Wyat, aged 94; "having as a midwife, assisted at the birth of one thousand, one hundred and more children."

(d) This year, 1721, the Small Pox went through Boston, and it was in twenty nine families in this town, whereof thirteen persons died, two of them being strangers."

(e) In 1732, several aged people died of a prevailing epidemic cold.

(f) In 1740, died Mr. John Trescott, aged 90, and his wife aged 90.

(g) In 1751, twelve persons died between November 22, and December 24.

(h) In 1752, several died of an epidemic plurisy and nervous fever; twenty in January.

(i) In 1774, several aged persons died, viz. one of 95, two of 86, one of 85, one of 84, one of 73, one of 62, and one of 58 years of age.

(j) In 1775, more aged persons died, viz. one (Mr. Israel Leadbetter) of 97, one of 88, one of 86, two of 72, one of 67, and one of 64 years of age. This year also, 40 soldiers were buried.

(k) In 1776, four died of the Small Pox.

(l) In 1777, twelve died of the Small Pox.

If this be correct, there are now living in the town, 254 more than have died out of it, since it was first settled.

In 1792, the number of inhabitants, was 1722; and in 1820 the number was 3684; so that in 28 years, the population has more than doubled.

In the last 33 years, (that is since the settlement of

*This sum is ascertained by the ratio of increase; that is, in 1820, the number of inhabitants was 3684, and, if it doubles in 28 years, then in 5 years there would be an addition of 653. More than a hundred children are born in a year in the town. In the year 1796, there were baptized 61, in 1806, there were 63 baptized.

Dr. HARRIS,) there have died 1500*—and it is a very striking evidence of the increase of population in the town, that more than one third of the whole number that have deceased out of the town since it was settled, have died within the last thirty three years.

For those thirty three years the average number of deaths has been about 46 a year.

The smallest number that died in any one year since 1793, was 17. This was in 1797; the greatest number, before the last year, was 68; this was in 1824.

In the year 1825 there died,

9	in the Third Parish,
30	in the Second, and
65	in the First.

Making 104 in the whole town.

*From the beginning of the year 1793, to the end of 1825 the whole number of deaths, was 1515; But Dr. Harris was settled on the 23d of October 1793, and from that time, to the close of the year, 24 died, which number only is taken into the above calculation.

RICHARD MATHER : anagram, " a third charmer,"

Third in New-England's Dorchester

Was this ordained Minister ;

Second to none for fruitfulness

Abilities and usefulness.

Divine his charms, years seven times seven :

Wise to win souls from earth to heaven.

Prophets' reward he gains above

But great's our loss by his remove.

Sacred to God his servant Richard Mather,

Sons like him good and great did call him father ;

Hard to discern the difference in degree,

'Twixt his bright learning and high piety.

Short time his slumbering dust lies covered down,

So can't his soul, nor his deserv'd renown.

From his birth six lustres and a jubilee

To his repose : but labour'd hard in thee

O Dorchester, for more than thirty years

His sacred dust with thee thine honour bears.

Ho Passenger ! its worth thy pains to stay,

And take a dead man's lesson by the way.

I was what now thou art, and thou shalt be
 What I am now, what odds 'twixt me and thee.
 Now go thy way, but stay, take one word more,
 Thy staff, for ought thou knowst, stands next the door
 Death is the door, the door of heaven or hell :—
 Be warn'd, be arm'd, believe, repent, Farewell !

Rev. JOSIAH FLINT, died September 15, 1680, aged 35.

A man of GOD he was, so great and good,
 His brightest worth was hardly understood.
 So much of GOD and Christ in him did dwell,
 In grace and holiness he did excel.
 An honor and an ornament hereby
 Both to the Churches and the Ministry.
 Most zealous in the work of reformation
 To save this self-destroying generation.
 With courage strove 'gainst all this peoples sin,
 He spent his strength, his life, his soul therein.
 Consumed with holy zeal for God, for whom
 He lived and died a kind of Martyrdom.

If men will not lament, their hearts not break,
 No wonder this lamenting stone doth speak.

His tomb-stone cries repent, and souls to save
 Doth preach repentance from his very grave.
 Gainst sinners doth a lasting record lie
 This monument to his blest memory.

Inclosed within this shrine is sacred dust,
 And only waits for the rising of the just.

Most useful while he lived ; adorned his station,
 Even to old age he serv'd his generation :
 Since his death thought of with great veneration.

How great a blessing this Ruling Elder he Unto the Church and Town and Pastors three.
 Mather he first did by him help receive ;
 Flint he did next of burdens much relieve ;
 Renowned Danforth he did help with skill.
 Esteemed high by all ;—bear fruit until Yielding to death his glorious seat did fill.*

who died October 19, 1706.

An ancient School Mistress.

A woman well beloved of all
 Her neighbours for her care of small
 Folks education, their numbers being great,
 That when she died she scarcely left her mate.
 So wise, discreet was her behaviours
 That she was well esteemed by neighbors.
 She lived in love with all to die,
 So let her rest to eternity.

PART II.

Consisting of EPITAPHS and INSCRIPTIONS, copied by myself from stones in several grave yards in different towns.

“ And now each humble, narrow, nameless bed
Whose grassy hillock not in vain appeals
To eyes that pass by Epitaphs unread,
Rises to view.—How still the dwelling of the dead !
It is a scene that well may call me back,
If any could, to solemn, tender themes :
Let me then once more turn me to the track
My thoughts were journeying : it is one that teems
With truths of high import,—not baseless dreams.”

Mr. HENRY SEWALL, (sent by Mr. Henry Sewall, his father,) in the ship Eliza and Dorcas, Capt. Watts Commander, arrived at Boston 1634, wintered at Ipswich, began this Plantation 1635, furnishing English servants, neat cattle and provisions; married Miss Jane Plummer, March 25, 1646; died May 16, 1700, aged 86.

His fruitful vine being thus disjoined
Fell to the ground Jan. 13, following.

NEWBURYPORT.

Here lies the body of NICHOLAS PIKE, A. M. aged 76. Acting Magistrate from July 4, 1776, to the year 1819.

ROWLEY.

Here lies the body of Deacon JOSEPH CHAPLIN, food for worms till the glorious resurrection morning. Born 1752, died 1813.

MILTON.

In memory of Mr. JAZANIAH SUMNER, who died May, 6, 1778, aged 66. Also his wife, Mrs. Judith Sumner, who died Nov. 15, 1799, aged 68.

So sleep the saints, and cease to groan,
When sin and death have done their worst,

Christ hath a glory like his own,
Which waits to clothe their waking dust.

II.

Miss MARY McCARNEY died Jan. 4, 1791, aged 20 years.

I sleep in darkness till that glorious day
When Christ my life shall roll the stone away ;
Prepare to meet me in the world above,
Where all shall join to sing redeeming love.

III.

Here lieth Deacon ROGER SUMNER, aged 66 years ;
died May 26, 1691.

IV.

Mr. DAVID WHITE, aged 70, died 1816.

Death is a debt which I have paid ;
And soon with me you must be laid.

II.

On Mrs. MARY LETHBRIDGE, aged 32.—1818.

How blest the change to give a world like this,
For robes of glory, and a crown of bliss.

III.

On Mr. GULLIVER WINCHESTER, aged 79, died 1811.
 This modest stone, what few vain marbles can,
 With truth may say, here lies an honest man.

IV.

On Mr. GEORGE WOODS, who died 1815, aged 73.
 Deprived of health, though e'er so long,
 His patience good, his faith was strong.

V.

On Miss SARAH STURTEVANT, aged 5 years; 1791.
 And is the infant snatched away?
 Must all this beauty now decay?
 Must it no more delight our eyes,
 Nor fill our souls with fond surprise.

V.

MARY WOOD, aged 5, died 1795.
 Just like a flower she was cut down,
 While reason began to bud,
 She early felt the stroke of death,
 It was the will of God.

IV.

Mr. JOHN DOWNING, aged about 53 years, deceased April 29, 1694.

I bargained with Christ for room below,
He grants me a mansion in his upper story,
Thus God gives more than we ask or know,
And instead of grace, uninterrupted glory.

V.

Here lies RICHARD BELLINGHAM, Esq. late Governor of the Colony of Massachusetts, who departed this life on the 11th day of Dec. 1672, in the 81st year of his age.

Virtue's fast friend within this tomb doth lie,
A foe to bribes, but rich in charity.

[The Bellingham Family being extinct, the Selectmen of Boston, in the year 1782, assigned this tomb to JAMES SULLIVAN, Esq.

The remains of Governor Bellingham are here preserved, and the above inscription is restored from the ancient monument.]

The family tomb of JAMES SULLIVAN, Esq. late Governor and Commander in Chief of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, who departed this life on the 10th of December, A. D. 1808, aged 64 years. His remains are here deposited. During a life of remarkable industry, activity and usefulness; amidst public and private contemporaneous avocations, uncommonly various, he was distinguished for zeal, intelligence and fidelity. Public spirited, benevolent, and social, he was eminently beloved as a man, eminently esteemed as a citizen, and eminently respected as a magistrate.

Mrs. ANN McMILLIAN, wifeto Mr. James McMillian, deceased Feb. 28, 1805, aged 81.

Happy soul, thy days are ended,
All thy mourning days below;
Go, by angel guards attended,
To the sight of Jesus go.

IV.

A Samuel returned to God
In Christ after a short abode,

On earth to shun earth's heinous crimes,
 Was here well put to bed betimes.
 The grave's as short as thou prepares,
 Lest thy death comes at unawares.

V.

MARY the wife of CÆSAR AUGUSTUS, servant of Mr.
 THOMAS BALL, aged 25.

[From a tomb stone.]

The Rev. Doctors INCREASE, COTTON, and SAMUEL MATHER, were interred in this vault.

'Tis the tomb of our fathers. H. Mather Crocker.
 Increase died April 27, 1723, aged 84. Cotton died
 February 13, 1727, aged 65. Samuel died June 27, 1785, aged 79.

Hodie mihi, cras tibi. -

VI.

X.

THOMAS, SON OF EDWARD AND MARTHA CARNES, was accidentally killed Dec. 22, 1818, aged 5 years.

Many are the shapes of death, and many are the ways that lead to his grim cave. All dismal.

XI.

WILLIAM FRANCIS, of Connecticut, died June 26th, 1804, aged 20.

Like flowery fields youth blooming stands,
Pleased with the morning light ;
The flowers, beneath the mowers hands
Lie withering ere 'tis night.

XII.

Mrs. ALICE, relict of Lieutenant WILLIAM HOWARD, aged 72, deceased Nov. 18, 1681.

XIII.

Mr. ROBERT FOWLE, died May 6, 1805, aged 63.

Death thou hast conquered me,
And by thy dart I'm slain ;
But Christ hath conquered thee,
And I shall rise again.

XIV.

Here rests the body of Mr. JOHN BUCKLEY, Jun. of D2

Saddleworth, near Manchester, Old England, who deceased 23d August 1798, aged 23.

In peace here rests a traveller's dust,
His journey's at an end;
He prized esteem amongst the just,
A censure from a friend.

Broke loose from Time's tenacious chains,
And earth's revolving gloom;
To range at large in vast domains
Of radiant worlds to come.

ROXBURY, East Burying Ground.

THOMSON, aged one year and six months 13 d. Died
Sept. 10, 1716.

VI.

On Mrs. ELIZABETH CLAFTON, aged 20, died 1814.

When on her dying countenance was seen
A smile, the index of a soul serene.

VII.

Here lies buried the body of the Rev. SHEARJASHUB
BOURNE, late minister of the first Parish in Scituate, and son of the Hon. Melatiah Bourne, Esq. of Sandwich, who died 14th August, 1768, æt. 69.

Cautious himself, he others ne'er deceived,
Lived as he taught, and taught as he believed.

CONCORD.

[Furnished to me by a young man, a relative, who resided at Concord.]

God wills us free; Man wills us slaves. I will as God wills, God's will be done.

Here lies the body of JOHN JACK, a native of Africa, who died March, 1773. aged about 60 years. Though born in a land of slavery, he was born free; though he lived in a land of liberty, he lived a slave, till by his honest, though stolen labours, he acquired the source of slavery, which gave him his freedom, though not long before his death. The grand tyrant gave him his final emancipation, and set him on a footing with kings.—

Though a slave to vice, he practised those virtues without which kings are but slaves.

QUINCY.

I.

Here lies the body of the Rev. Mr. HENRY FLYNT, who came to New England in the year 1635, was ordained the first Teacher of the Church of Braintree 1639, and died 27th April, 1663. He had the character of a gentleman remarkable for his piety, learning, wisdom, and fidelity in his office.

By him, on his right hand, lies the body of Margery, his beloved consort, who died March 1686—7. Her maiden name was Hoar. She was a gentlewoman of piety, prudence, and peculiarly accomplished for instructing young gentlewomen, many being sent to her from other towns, especially from Boston.

Descendants of goodly families in Old England.

II.

Here lies buried the body of JOANNA QUINCY, the wife of Mr. Edmund Quincy, aged 55, died 16th May, 1680.

III.

[Inscription on the monumental stone to the memory of the Rev. MOSES FISKE, of Braintree, who was ordained 11th Sept. 1672, and died 10th of August, 1708, in his 66th year.]

Braintree, thy prophet's gone ; this tomb inters
The Reverend MOSES FISKE his sacred herse.
Adore heaven's praiseful art that formed the man,
Who souls, not to himself, but Christ oft wan ;
Sailed through the straits with Peter's family,

Renowned, and Gaius' hospitality ;
 Paul's patience, James' prudence, John's sweet love,
 Is landed, entered, clear'd, and crown'd above.

IV.

Inscription on the Monument of the ever revered and learned LEONARD HOAR, D. M. and sometime President of Harvard College, who died Nov. 28, 1675, aged 45.

Three precious friends under this tombstone lie,
 Patterns to aged, youth, and infancy,
 A great mother, her learned son, with's child,
 The first and least went free, He was exiled:
 In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends,
 He left his own, crossed seas, and for amends,
 Was here extolled, envied, all in a breath,
 His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death.
 Strange changes may befall us ere we die,
 Blest they who well arrive at eternity.
 God grant some names, O thou New England's friend,
 Don't sooner fade than thine, if time's don't mend.

His aged and pious relict, the late Madam Usher, was brought hither from Boston, and interred in the same grave, according to her desire, May 30, 1723.

V.

Sacred to the memory of JOSIAH QUINCY, jun. of Boston, Barrister at Law, youngest son of Josiah Quincy, Esq. late of this place. Brilliant talents, uncommon eloquence, and indefatigable application raised him to the highest eminence in his profession. His early, enlightened, inflexible attachment to the cause of his country is attested by monuments more durable than this, and transmitted to posterity by well known productions of his genius.

He was born the 23d of February 1744, and died the 26th of April, 1775. His mortal remains are here deposited with those of Abigail, his wife, daughter of William Phillips, Esq. born the 14th of April, 1745, died the 25th March 1793.

Stranger, in contemplating this monument as the frail tribute of filial gratitude and affection ;

Glows thy bold breast with patriotic flame ?

Let his example point the paths of fame !

Or seeks thy heart, averse from public strife,

The milder graces of domestic life ?

Her kindred virtues let thy soul revere,

And o'er the best of mothers drop a tear !

[On the other side of this monument is this inscription.]

JOSIAH QUINCY, jun. Esq. born 23d Feb. 1744, died 26th April, 1775.

ABIGAIL QUINCY, born 14th April 1745, died 25th March, 1793.

To their united and beloved memory, this monument was erected by their only surviving child, 1802.

VII.

On Dr. BENJAMIN VINTON, aged 38.—1813.

No pains, no grief, no anxious fear,

Invade thy bounds ; no mortal woes

Can reach the peaceful sleeper here,

Whilst angels watch his soft repose.

VIII.

Mrs. MARY BRACKETT, aged 76, died 1805.

Sleep here awhile concealed in earth,
'Till the glad spring of nature's second birth ;
'Then quit the transient winter of the tomb,
To rise and flourish in immortal bloom.

IX.

Sacred to the memory of Master ICHABOD JOHNSON, a celebrated teacher of music, who died 5th August, 1807, aged 42 years.

And let this feeble body fail,
And let it faint and die ;
My soul shall quit this mournful vale,
And soar to worlds on high ;
Shall join the disembodied saints,
And find its long sought rest,
That only bliss for which it pants
In the Redeemer's breast.

CONCLUDING REFLECTIONS.

“WHEN I look upon the tombs of the great, every motion of envy dies within me. When I read the Epitaphs of the beautiful, every inordinate desire goes out. When I meet with the grief of parents on a tomb stone, my heart melts with compassion. When I see the tombs of parents themselves, I consider the vanity of grieving for those whom we must quickly follow. When I see rivals placed side by side on the same low level, and those that divided the world by their contests and disputes, now humble and peaceable,—I reflect with sorrow and astonishment on the little competitions, factions and debates of mankind. When I read the several dates on the tombs, of some that died as yesterday, and some centuries ago, I consider that great day, when we shall all of us be contemporaries, and make our appearance together.”
